

2 Access to vaccines and rapid tests made it feel a bit safer to connect with 0 family and friends during Year Two of this pandemic. Tristan and her family
2 joined us here in Saskatoon at the end of June and again at Thanksgiving.
1 We visited them in Calgary for a few days in August.

Here in Saskatoon, we've been able to get together with Lindsay, Ethan, Mom and a few friends and members of our extended family. For this we are very grateful.

Dave is enjoying his retirement from work and taking care of many more things on the home front. Thanks to his hard work, we continue to eat VERY well, and BTW, our lawn has never looked as good as it did this year.

Pat had a very art-full year that included: taking part in a 3-day Virtual Live Watercolor Conference online, painting regularly with her Artists' Workshop colleagues, teaching virtual 'Sketching With Ink & Watercolor' classes for the U of S Community Arts program, launching the Café Series II virtual show in the spring, as well as mounting two live exhibitions (Lanterns of The World at Brainsport Gallery in July, and Care For A Cuppa at City Perks Coffeehouse in October and November).

Our grandsons are growing up quickly. The eldest is now in High School and the youngest in Grade One. It's fun to follow their pursuits – skiing, swimming, and basketball are exciting for all of them.

We are eager to start traveling again as soon as it's safe to do so. In the meantime, we look forward to staying touch by phone, facetime, snail mail, email and zoom!
